- KATHLEEN NORRIS ..... 4.00
 Rose pink. This large outstanding informal decorative was a sensation in 1928, and time has proven its worth. No greater recommendation can be made for the flower than its unusual growth in popularity. MONMOUTH CHAMPION (FD) (Kemp).....	6.00
Color orange flame. This 1929 Roll of Honor dahlia is making one of the best showings of any of its classmates. Stocks are limited.
MRS. ALFRED B. SEAL (ID) (Seal).....	5.00
Every once in a while in the great march of progress which the dahlia is making, there appears a truly outstanding variety of greater value than almost any other. Mrs. Alfred B. Seal is just that. The color is an old rose, one in which there are not too many good dahlias. It has a very healthy, vigorous, sturdy growth; blooms are very large with no trace of coarseness. We have never yet seen an imperfect bloom. In general, it is somewhat in a class by itself, and in quality there is no better dahlia. We predict that this flower will rival in popularity the variety Amun Ra, by the same originator. It has never failed to win first place in the Portland Dahlia Show since its origination. See color plate on front of catalog.
MRS. CARL SALBACH (FD) (Salbach).....	.35

PFITZER'S TRIUMPH

Prepare your ground the same as for dahlias and fertilize in a similar manner. Glads may be planted in rows or beds and should have at least 30 square inches for each large bulb. Large bulbs will produce the best spikes, provided they are not too old and flat. When bulbs get old and fail to produce good spikes they should be cut in two or discarded for younger ones. Plantings may be made from March until July, thus providing a long blooming period.

ALL prices in this catalog include transportation charges to the nearest postoffice, express or freight station. The transportation system is our selection unless otherwise agreed to. We do not assume the carrier's responsibility.

The prices on dahlias are for root separation. We grow a great many green plants each year, especially of the expensive varieties, which we can supply at a considerable saving in cost. We suggest a trial of these plants. Perhaps you will like them better than roots. We ship them in the soil they are growing in. Write us about your requirements.

Dahlia shipments will go forward about April 15 unless otherwise specified.

The dahlia classifications in this catalog are the new form adopted by the American Dahlia Society. The abbreviations are as follows: "C" Cactus, Incurved, Recurved or Straight; "S-C" Semi-Cactus; "FD" Formal Decorative; "ID" Informal Decorative; "MD" Miniature Decorative; "P" Peony; "PP" Pompon.

We have no desire to rush our customers, but for the past four years we have sold all our merchantable dahlia roots, and have been forced to disappoint many buyers. We have a much larger stock this year, but as our business is growing, it will be safer if you do order early. If you wish us to substitute, please advise us in your order.

PLANT the dahlia tuber about 6 inches deep with the eye upward. The dahlia should be planted about the middle of May in the northern sections of the United States and at a time in the south that will develop a full sized plant about the time the cooler weather starts; this will require about 90 days if the plants are irrigated.

For cut flowers remove the terminal buds on the main stalk and all but one on the branches which are selected for stem branches.

Stir the soil about 2 inches deeper each year until a depth of from 12 to 16 inches is reached, according to the nature of the soil. See that the soil has good drainage. If it is necessary to fertilize follow the instructions of the manufacturer if prepared fertilizer is used. It is always best to use a balanced fertilizer having all the necessary elements. We have used Vigoro with good results. If barnyard manure is used we would advise that you add some potash, especially if the crop is for commercial purposes.

If irrigation is necessary use judgment in watering. Soak well and cultivate. Water as seldom as will keep the plant in good growing condition. Spraying the foliage only may be done as often as desired with beneficial results.
